CIVIL WAR RESEARCH ON THE INTERNET

copyright Robert S. Davis

We have many handouts on doing Civil War era research including specific guides to Confederate and Union service sources. Our collection of books, microfilm, and microfiche is one of the best in the nation for materials on that period in American History. In addition to the sites recommended below, you can find other information of interest with general searches through such engines as Google.com

GENERAL WEB SITES

The American Civil War Homepage (free)

MANUSCRIPT CATALOGS

Some libraries have spectacular Civil War holdings that can be searched from their individual library web sites including Tulane, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (Southern Historical Collection), Emory University, and the William L. Clements Library. Almost all National Park Service battlefields and other Civil War sites have libraries with manuscript materials.

Archives Grid (free identification of collections but to learn libraries that have specific collections requires a subscription)

<http://www.archivegrid.org/web/index.jsp>

First Search OCLC (free in Alabama through the Alabama Virtual Library, also includes books and some articles)

NEWSPAPERS THAT CAN BE SEARCHED AND ARTICLES READ

Many large research libraries subscribe to data bases of such newspapers as the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune. We a CD-ROM disk selected articles from the Civil War New York Herald, Richmond Examiner, and Charleston Mercury. An incomplete international bibliography of newspaper digitalization projects is the International Coalition on Newspapers: <http://icon.crl.edu/digitization.htm> Often newspapers reprinted stories from others newspapers.
